

2023 NANDA International Conference

Shaping, Informing, and Communicating
Nursing and the Human Experience

June 14-16, 2023

Boston College
Connell School of Nursing
Chestnut Hill, MA 02467-3812

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

Welcome to Boston! It is a pleasure to welcome you to Boston College and the NANDA-I 50th Anniversary celebration. After many years of not being able to meet in person, I am happy to greet old friends and meet new members who have joined NANDA-I from around the world.

Since meeting in person in 2018, we have faced global challenges unlike any in recent memory. The sustained impact of the COVID-19 pandemic is astronomical. Healthcare services are stretched beyond their limit. Patients, administrators, and providers experienced burnout as we faced immense challenges. Natural disasters and the impacts of global warming have devastated communities and limited access to adequate healthcare. Social and government upheaval have exposed gaps in our systems and forced patients, administrators, and providers to adapt and make difficult decisions regarding healthcare. War, armed conflict, and violence have made it more difficult for us to recover from the consequences of a global pandemic.

Over the course of the pandemic, we were reminded of our global connectedness and that we are dependent upon one another more than we may have previously imagined. Our lives are not bound by human-made borders, the tallest mountains, or the deepest waters. Whatever happens in one territory can have global consequences.

As the pandemic raged, nurses were celebrated as heroes. People worldwide were aware, for at least a moment, how important nurses are during crises.

Nursing organizations like NANDA-I continue to be important to the well-being and advancement of humanity. We have the opportunity and responsibility to develop and share resources and nursing knowledge for the benefit of individuals, communities, and systems. NANDA-I and our peer organizations are vital to recovery efforts worldwide. I am grateful that we are able to be here together to participate in that progress.

We are gathering to celebrate the 50th anniversary of NANDA-International and to participate in its proud tradition of developing, spreading, and implementing nursing knowledge. Our program entitled "Shaping, Informing, and Communicating Nursing and the Human Experience" seeks to acknowledge our legacy as well as our future commitment to global health and well-being through nursing. We look forward to your active engagement in the conference proceedings we have prepared with the Connell School of Nursing at Boston College and the Marjory Gordon Program for Clinical Reasoning, Decision Making, and Knowledge Development.

I speak for myself, the board, and everyone involved in facilitating this conference when I say that I hope you have a great time, and that you are able to enjoy the beauty of this campus and city. Thank you for joining us. We look forward to learning together and wish you a great time!

2023 NANDA-I Conference Objectives

Shaping, Informing, and Communicating Nursing and the Human Experience

- Explore the use of data to achieve nursing excellence in practice, education and research.
- Develop opportunities for incorporating standardized nursing language into big data platforms.
- Describe current systems for data collection, storage, retrieval and use in health care settings.
- Provide the latest science validating the frameworks for nursing assessment and diagnosis across cultures and settings.
- Discuss the implications for standardized nursing language in education, policy and knowledge development for nurses.
- Promote international collaboration in research and implementation projects using NANDA-I nursing diagnoses at regional and national levels.
