NATURAL LAW, GOD, AND HUMAN DIGNITY

Robert P. George

McCormick Professor of Jurisprudence, Princeton University

There are irreducible aspects of human well-being that can be understood and affirmed on the basis of rational reflection. These human goods provide the basic precepts of the natural law, and constitute the foundation for moral truth and the moral law. We invite you to a conversation with Professor George on how natural law theory undergirds much contemporary social and political thought.
